“ Brent was always a nice neighbor when i lived across the street from him. He would plow my driveway when needed without even having to ask. I would always run into him in town and we would chat it up for a while. Amd we would always wave at one another when i would drive past his house. He absolutely loved his his cats and from what i knew of him over the years a very nice man. Sad to know i wont see him when im driving thru town sitting out on his picnic table waving at me when i go by. He will be missed.
